The easyGroup Brand Manual

© copyright easyGroup IP Licensing Ltd.

Hi from Stelios

Dear friends and colleagues,

The 'easy' brand, which I started with the launch of the airline in 1995, is now used by more than a dozen different businesses and millions of consumers from all over the world. I believe it is an extremely valuable asset which can generate substantial success for all involved with it.

Therefore we have created this brand manual. Like any manual, its objective is to help people who use the brand to understand its origin, the brand values and the best ways of getting the most out of it.

This brand manual is written for the benefit of those people within the easyGroup, or franchisees or licensees of the 'easy' brand and for those who are considering buying into the brand.

We have now listed the eight brand values of the easy brand in their own right (see page 14). Clearly a lot has been written over the years about easyJet, the first 'easy' business and the flagship of the brand and many of the younger businesses have articulated, to some degree, their own values. However this manual is for the entire 'easy' brand and it identifies the common themes amongst all the 'easy' businesses.

A brand is always evolving and people's perceptions of it do change from time to time. However I still believe that there are eight values (listed on p14) that all 'easy' businesses share and sticking to them is a good idea for everybody. Remember there is strength in unity.

I want you, as a partner or associate to get close to our way! How we do business, how we communicate, what we believe in and ultimately where we are going.

Take care and enjoy.

what is the easyGroup?

The easyGroup is the private investment vehicle of Stelios, the serial entrepreneur. The easyGroup is the owner of the 'easy' brand and licences it to all of the 'easy' branded businesses, including easyJet plc, the airline Stelios started in 1995 and in which he remains the largest single shareholder. The easyGroup profits by either selling shares in the businesses or by licensing or franchising the brand to reputable partners. The 'easy' brand currently operates in more than a dozen industries mainly in travel, leisure, serviced office accommodation and other consumer facing sectors.

naming

Our visual identity, known as the 'Getup', is an essential part of the easyJet Brand Licence and is cast in stone!

It is defined as:

“(a) white lettering on an orange background (Pantone® 021c on glossy print materials; on other surfaces the nearest practicable equivalent) and

(b) in Cooper Black font (not bold, italics, outline nor underlined) the word “easy” in lower case followed (without space) by another word, only the initial letter of which is capitalised”

The 'easy' name is a powerful asset.

To maintain brand strength, correct and consistent use is vital.

The easyGroup logo is used when representing Stelios' company and the licensor of the 'easy' brand in corporate communications.

The logo for easyGroup, featuring the word 'easy' in lowercase and 'Group' in uppercase, both in a white, bold, serif font against an orange background.

Group logo in correct Cooper Black font

The logo for easyCar, featuring the word 'easy' in lowercase and 'Car' in uppercase, both in a white, bold, serif font against an orange background.

The logo for easyJet, featuring the word 'easy' in lowercase and 'Jet' in uppercase, both in a white, bold, serif font against an orange background.

capitalise first letter following 'easy'

the portal logo

The portal logo is at the heart of all group communication aimed at the consumer. Designed in the shape of a button this logo is the consumer-facing brand which represents all of the online 'easy' businesses.

When using the .com suffix it always appears in the Futura typeface. This is included on the website of all 'easy' businesses. It is mandated by the Brand Licence. It helps consumers: it shows this is an authentic legitimate 'easy' business and it helps them find the website using search engines.

As a brand standard, all easyGroup brand licensees are required to include the legend 'by Stelios & easy.com' on their website homepage. We strongly recommend this is placed in the header, top right.

the exclusion zone

the exclusion zone

The logotype must be reproduced with a clear area around it which is free from other graphic elements. This area is known as the 'exclusion zone'.

written style

In body text the portal name should always appear in the font Futura.

the minimum size

The logo should always be clearly legible.

colours

The logo should always be white on easy orange PANTONE 021. In body text it should only appear in black on white and only where white out of easy orange is not practical.

the brand fonts

The Cooper Black font has played an important part in building the 'easy' brand. Its bold, confident and distinct appearance has made it recognisable and associated with 'easy'. Its soft friendly curves have given a warm personality to the 'easy' businesses. Note the Cooper Black font should only be used for the business name. No shading or keylines should be used around the business name.

Futura creates the perfect balance as the communication font, with its clean and contemporary linear features.

tone of voice

Don't over complicate.

Tell it like it is.

Be direct and get to the point.

Always look for the simplest way to say what you want.

We believe that a message is better read when it's simple to understand.

Be direct and talk the language of your customer. They will appreciate your honesty and simplicity.

Do not be afraid to use colloquialisms – or should we say... Do not be afraid to use plain and simple phrases?

We're never sexist, after all, easyGroup is for the many, not the few but we're often cheeky and always try to raise a smile.

For example, easyJet cabin crew have said, "If you have enjoyed your flight today, thank you for choosing easyJet. If you haven't thank you for flying Ryanair!" and

"It is a routine regulation that we dim the cabin lights for landing, it also enhances the beauty of our senior cabin crew!"

PR

Marketing is considered as core competence at the easyGroup and within the marketing mix public relations has always been used extensively by easyGroup companies. Advertising can be very useful but it is relatively expensive. PR can be just as effective and it's free!

easyGroup companies are not secretive, their business plans are easy to understand and they are consumer-facing. This makes the use of public relations – communicating with consumers at large, usually through the media – very attractive. In addition, easyGroup companies have never run away from fights with larger companies. If a larger company wants to compete with you it can only be because they think you have something to offer, so it's worth publicising that fact. Consumers, and therefore the media, are generally very interested in hearing about how and why they are paying for goods and services.

As a leading brand easyGroup companies now enjoy wide coverage in the media and consequently wide awareness among the public at large. Stelios himself is an excellent ambassador for the brand and finds time in his busy schedule to meet and be interviewed by the media. The result is frequent exposure in the media for easyGroup companies.

easyGroup public relations is frequent and loud, open, quick to react, cheeky, fun and takes its job rather than itself seriously. Don't ignore a journalist, there's nothing wrong with admitting "I don't know, can I find out?"

PR case studies

When British Airways tried to muscle in on the low cost airline sector Stelios was on board the inaugural flight of their low cost airline wearing an orange boiler suit. This stunt gained international media coverage, "Well worth the price of a boiler suit!" as Stelios himself remarked afterwards.

When the chief executive of Barclays Bank, which owns Barclaycard, mistakenly remarked that credit cards were expensive, he was offered an easyMoney credit card with £100,000 cash spending money already on it provided he promised to cut up his Barclaycard and sent it to the easyGroup. Although he declined the kind offer, the media loved the story and gave easyMoney wide publicity.

Building such a high profile and open brand has helped to snowball the easyGroup relationship with the public and the media. When ITV wanted to make a TV series in 1998 about running an airline they approached easyJet as an open-minded airline. The result has been one of the longest running 'docusoaps' of all time. The 'Airline' series has been running on primetime network television for seven years and is now in its ninth series. It's 'warts and all' television but invaluable PR for a company that is growing fast and which sells direct to the public.

Sky Television has followed this mould and has made a TV series about easyCruise – 'Cruising the Stelios way!'. Once again it's an honest look at life aboard easyCruiseOne from both passengers and staff points of view, but it's also weekly exposure on European-wide television and building a brand and a reputation that would otherwise cost millions in advertising.

consumer communication

business advertising

The most effective 'easy' communication has been where the product or service position has been brought alive through an identifiable image or photograph.

This can be done with either humour or aspiration.

These historical examples show these principles in action.

how to use Stelios

Stelios is a powerful asset in the brand's portfolio.

His levels of consumer recognition attract favourable attention to the businesses.

To avoid overuse the "From Stelios and easy.com" should be restricted to launch communication to clearly identify the origin of these new businesses.

When Stelios speaks it should be combative to the old order by taking on the big boys.

FAQ

1. Does Stelios own easyJet?

The airline is listed on the London Stock Exchange so it has many shareholders. Stelios remains the largest single shareholder.

2. Does Stelios run easyJet?

As a public company, the airline is run by its own board of directors and by a full time management team.

3. Does Stelios charge easyJet a royalty for the use of the brand?

Stelios initially built the 'easy' brand through easyJet, the first 'easy' company. When easyJet was floated on the stock exchange, Stelios agreed a nominal royalty for use of the easyJet brand.

4. Do other 'easy' businesses get access to the easyJet customer base?

As each business has different shareholders, all dealings between them is on arms-length terms and payment has to be made for such cross marketing opportunities

5. Is Stelios himself available to the easy brand licensees for PR/advertising purposes?

Stelios does make himself available for such purposes especially at the launch phase of an 'easy' business. Needless to say that such use will have to be made only after he has given his approval in writing.

6. Can an 'easy' brand licensee control what Stelios says?

In order to maintain the integrity of the 'easy' brand licensing system, Stelios has to be free to criticize a particular licensee in the way it uses the brand, first in confidential communications and in extreme circumstances in public. Obviously information which has been agreed to be kept confidential by both sides, will be kept confidential.

7. Who decides where the 'easy' brand can be applied?

The easyGroup and hence Stelios who owns it. He has more to lose and gain from the easy brand so he is best placed to decide.

8. Do 'easy' businesses compete with each other?

Yes they do. There are some restrictions imposed on each business in the brand licence to mainly stick to their core activity but many do compete and they do collaborate at the same time.

9. Are there risks with each brand extension?

Yes there are. There is no reward without risk. But Stelios still believes that the benefits of building a common brand outweigh the risks. The whole is worth more than the sum of the parts!
